I am strongly opposed to the use of cellphones during flight. We depend on passengers to be our eyes and ears during flight, this would interfere with their situational awareness. Isn't life stressful enough without having to listen to someone rant and rave to his co-worker/wife/son? If you allow cellphone use on planes, please put them all in one soundproof area! Ditto for airports. And too many people talking on cellphones during an emergency interferes with the rights of other passengers to be able to hear crew briefing/commands. They shouldn't even be used during taxi-in.....too dangerous.
